Authority, Power and Relational Supervision

Sue Murphy and Adella Shapiro

Saturday 9th February 2019: 10am – 5pm.

This is a one-day workshop for qualified practitioners only, to explore the ethical tensions within relational supervision of stepping into authority, drawing on recent thinking regarding the relational unconscious. The workshop will include theoretical input and experiential work.

In the afternoon there will be an opportunity to explore the use of the embodied experience, intersubjective awareness and the use of reflexivity to identify and examine issues of power and authority as they arise in supervision.

There will be an opportunity for participants to work on some of their own material from their practice.

Sue Murphy is the Course Leader for the Diploma in Supervision and PgDip/MA in Professional Practice (Supervision) at The Minster Centre. Sue has been working for over 25 years as a psychotherapist, trainer, manager of counselling services and supervisor in the NHS, Voluntary Sector, Further and Higher Education. Currently she supervises teams and individuals in the NHS, Higher Education and voluntary sectors.

Adella Shapiro teaches on the Supervision Training at The Minster Centre and has worked for the past 30 years with individuals and groups in different settings. She has supervised psychotherapy students, NHS managers, group facilitators, psychotherapists and counsellors in the statutory and voluntary sectors.
